KENNEDY ORDERS DEFENSES BEEFED UP

Some of U.S. Nuclear Arms Now Obsolete

AEC Tells Congress Of Danger in Tests Without Inspection

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has built up such an arsenal of new and improved nuclear weapons that it has started relegating obsolescent models to retirement, the Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today.

The AEC said the nation's present nuclear weapons strength—both in numbers and variety—offers a "powerful deterrent against aggression."

But the AEC added this alert to its annual report to Congress: Further dramatic advances in weapons are possible through further nuclear testing, and therefore a threat to the free world is "implicit in a continued unpoliced moratorium on weapons testing."

The commission indicated its belief in the possibility that the Soviet Union may have been conducting underground sneak tests of weapons during the current moratorium, in effect since 1958.

"This commission is full in accord," said the report, "with the national policy of attaining cessation of nuclear weapons tests under a treaty that would establish international controls adquate to assure compliance with its provisions.

"The commission, however, also feels a strong sense of responsibility to point out the risks to free world supremacy in nuclear weapons—and the resultant threat to the free world—that are implicit in a continued unpoliced moratorium on weapons testing."

The AEC gave its appraisal of America's present strength in nuclear arms.

"In the field of national defense," it said, "the commission can take satisfaction in having developed and manufactured a variety of nuclear weapons and warheads in ample quantities to meet the current requirements of the Department of Defense.

"Nuclear weapons have been made available for Strategic and Tactical Air Forces and for missile batteries. During 1960, the first submarine armed with nuclear missiles as well as powered with a nuclear reactor—the Polaris missile-carrying USS George Washington—undertook its first routine mission."

"The world knows," said the AEC, "we have an ample store of a variety of nuclear weapons—an armament that represents a powerful deterrent against aggression."

In other highlights of its 544-page report, the commission revealed:

1. Progress toward producing atomic power at costs competitive with power produced by conventional fuels, and "we are exploring new and radical concepts for power reactors with the objective of reducing further the cost of power from nuclear sources."

2. Advances in developing nuclear-powered space rockets and nuclear-powered aircraft.

3. Radioactive Strontium 90—the same material that's so greatly feared in the fallout from nuclear bombs tests—is being used to develop special electric power units and will be used by the Coast Guard in coastal light buoys and by the Navy and Weather Bureau for automatic weather stations.

4. Work has started to develop special instruments which could be carried by space satellites to detect nuclear explosions in outer space.

GOP Plans To Cut DiSalle's Budget

COLUMBUS (AP) — After a two-week dispute, it now appears Republicans in the Ohio Legislature are about ready to introduce Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's appropriations bill, minus the $75 million needed to put it in balance.

The big money measure still will call for spending of nearly $2.1 billion in the next two years despite the cuts Finance Director James H. Maloon has promised to suggest before it goes officially to the House. The appropriations bill probably will get early hearings which likely will last 10 weeks to three months in the House before the measure is turned over to the Senate.

There have been no direct promises, but lawmakers expect the money bill to be introduced sometime this week.

Maloon's suggested changes will drop from the bill suggested program improvements in the fields of mental health, welfare, education and highway safety. If the Republicans can find any "fat" in the DiSalle budget, they might be able to restore some of Maloon's cut in those vital fields.

Aside from the Democratic governor's obvious unhappiness over the GOP legislature's hard-nosed stand that he or his finance director would cut the proposed state spending down to the level of anticipated revenue—or else—labor isn't too happy either.

Republicans—after they helped turn back DiSalle's emergency appeal in late November for an extension of unemployment benefits because of a rough situation in Ohio—indicated they planned early action on the issue in the regular session.

"Early" is a term subject to loose interpretation. But, as the legislature enters its fifth week, the best the Republicans have come up with is the device of sending three bills on the subject to a subcommittee which will weld the measures into a single substitute bill.

Extension of benefits on whatever basis the subcommittee decides, however, could be further delayed if DiSalle goes through this his announced plan to send

Chimp Poised For Space Ride

Test To Determine Activities of Brain

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A very smart young earthling soon will test whether the brain clicks along normally or goes haywire in space flight.

This earthling will be a chimpanzee, one of man's closest cousins in the department of smartness.

He, or she, will provide the first careful measurements whether mental faculties and reflexes are taking off in a rocket, and floattaking off in a rockt, and floating in space without the familiar sensation of having weight.

A highly trained chimpanzee is scheduled to ride Tuesday 115 miles up and 290 miles down range into the Atlantic ocean from this famous space port.

Later, if all goes well, one of seven human astronauts is scheduled to take the same type of ride in another step toward human trips orbiting the earth.

The chimpanzee will have jobs to do in his brief ride.

Mental processes of the young chimps are closer to those of man than the ape, scientists report. And their reaction time of .7 of a second is close to man's .5 of a second.

Six chimps have trained to flick levers when lights go on or else they get slight electrical shocks through the foot. They have learned to perform almost perfectly in the laboratories.

A key question is whether they can do as well under the oppressive pressure of rocket takeoff and during nearly five minutes time of zero gravity in the arcing ride.

Candidates To File Petitions before 4 p.m. Wednesday

Deadline for filing petitions declaring candidacy in the May Primary Election is 4 p. m. Wednesday.

Petitions to be filed with the local Board of Elections by Wednesday include the following city offices; mayor, solicitor, treasurer, president of council and all councilmen.

Board of Election officials also announced today that Pickaway County voters who did not register preceding the General Election in November, 1960, must do so before March 22, before they will be permitted to vote in the May Primary Election.

Persons need not register if they have not moved out of the precinct, in which they voted in November. A woman must register again if she has been married since registering last year.

Informality Rules Now in White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is going in for less formality in his White House office—logs burning in the fireplace, flanked by two comfortable sofas, with a coffee table in between.

Kennedy has had the oval presidential office repainted from pale green to off-white and ordered pictures of George Washington and other historical predecessors removed in favor of stirring naval battle scenes.

Reporters got a weekend look at the executive office after Kennedy votoed the green walls which had just been freshly redone for him in the same color favored by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Kennedy has on his desk some bookends left over from Eisenhower. They feature gold eagles mounted on a navy blue base with five gold stars—the insignia of a general of the army. The bookends hold a copy of the Bible, a world Almanac and two books written by Kennedy himself.

On Kennedy's desk are the beginnings of what looks like a comfortable permanent clutter: a coconut shell war memento, a favorite pair of daggers paper weight and an ash tray to service his occasional cigars.

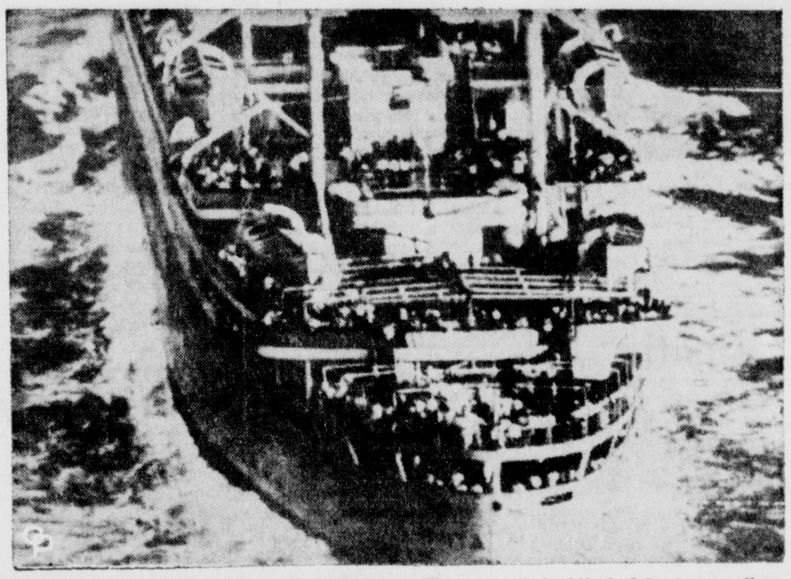
The coconut shell, encased in plastic, is the one scratched with an SOS message which Kennedy sent with a native for help when he was marooned on a Pacific island after his PT boat was cut in two by a Japanese destroyer during World War II.

Chamber Seeks New Executive

Darrell Hatfield, 345 Sunset Drive has submitted his resignation as executive secretary of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter to Eldred Parsons, Chamber president, Hatfield declared the press of his business is responsible. He said he cannot take the time necessary to fulfill the duties of executive secretary any longer.

Hatfield took the post March 1, 1955. He told Parsons that he will serve until a successor is named if that is within 60 day. He said he is resigning with deep regret and will continue to be an active member of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce.



HIJACKED LINER HEADS FOR RENDEZVOUS — The name of the hijacked Portuguese liner Santa Maria is visible on the stern as passengers crowd stern decks in the Atlantic. There were reports that the rebels hoped to stay at sea until Tuesday, the date set for the take-over of the Brazilian government by President-elect Janos Quadros, who is considered friendly to the rebels.

Pirate Captain, U.S. Admiral Book Parley

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—A U. S. admiral agreed today to a meeting at daybreak Tuesday with the rebel captain of the seized liner Santa Maria to arrange for the release of her 588 passengers.

Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith Jr., U. S. Navy commander in the Caribbean, said he received a message from Capt. Henrique Galvao proposing the meeting on the high seas. Smith quickly accepted.

The Portuguese luxury liner, whose 42 American and other passengers have been virtual hostages since Jan. 22, was reported lying about 60 miles due east of Recife.

Smith will sail on the destroyer Gearing for the rendezvous with the political foe of Portuguese Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar. The Gearing, one of four U. S. destroyers assigned to track the captive ship, now is heading for Recife.

Smith flew to Recife from Belem Sunday night to take charge of arrangements for the release of the passengers.

Smith said he planned a ren-

Crew Cuts Replaced By Kennedy Mop-Top

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — A leading barber reported today the latest rage is the John F. Kennedy hairdo—a mop on top, parted on the side.

"Young Scots are giving up the crew cut and going in for this in a big way," said the barber. They say it makes them look older, more mature.

"On the other hand, middle-aged men are coming in for the same type of haircut because they think it makes them look younger."

Key Vote in House Tuesday To Determine Rules Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration faces its first key vote in the House Tuesday. It is on a plan to enlarge the Rules Committee, the group of 12 men who decide what bills come before the House.

Speaker Sam Rayburn announced over the weekend there would be no compromise on his plan to add three members to the committee. This would break the power of four conservative Republicans and two Southern Democrats on the committee who consistently have blocked House votes on many social welfare bills.

Ending this power is the first key to getting President Kennedy's New Frontier legislation through Congress. Many House liberals regard the step as absolutely essential if bills are to be enacted covering these Kennedy pledges: aid to education, aid to depressed areas, housing under Social Security, and raising the minimum wage.

Rayburn is deeply committed to ending the bottleneck power of the committee. His "no compromise" announcement Saturday indicates he thinks he now has the votes to win.

Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia is chairman of the Rules Committee and one of the Southern Democrats who teams with the Republicans to produce bill-blocking 6-6 tie votes in the committee.

Smith had offered to clear the five major Kennedy legislative proposals and also to give up the committee's power to prevent bills from going to House-Senate conferences in return for leaving his committee alone.

But Rayburn said, "Five bills is just a couple of weeks' work. We've got a two-year session coming up, and I've got to look at the long haul.

"I don't know what bills are going to come up, but I think the newly elected President has a right to get his legislative program considered in the House.

"And I think that with a Rules Committee as composed now it couldn't be done. A committee divided 6-6 can't do business."

The Rayburn plan would add two Democrats and one Republican to the committee. The two new Democrats presumably could be counted on to vote with the administration. Bills thus could be freed for action by an 8-7 vote, even if the new Republican joined the conservatie coalition.

Local People Respond to Call for Aid

Many local families came to the aid of a family of nine left homeless in the county last week by fire.

Receiving appreciated articles of clothing and other essentials were Mr. and Mrs. Gus Blair and their five children. Their five - room home in Jackson Twp. was destroyed by flames Thursday.

The family managed to escape with only the clothes they were wearing. Clarence Whaley, Northridge Road, and the Circleville Fire Department promptly launched a drive to collect articles.

Firemen today said at least 20 loca. persons contributed clothing and furniture for the unfortunate family.

Whaley and the firemen expressed their thanks to the public today for its fine response in answering the request. They said the donations were more than sufficient.

Sixth District's Legislator Against Rules Panel Packing

By WILLIAM H. HARSHA JR.
Congressman, Sixth District

WASHINGTON D. C. — Probably the most crucial vote I will have to make in this Congress is the vote on the resolution to pack the Rules Committee.

By necessity, for efficiency and for practicality, the Congress of the United States depends upon the committee form of internal organization to assure most effective operation.

The Rules Committee is a most important part of this system. It is a check against faulty, hasty or ill - advised legislation. It determines what legislation shall go to the floor of the House for consideration and under what terms — that is what debate if any is permitted and the number of ammendments that can be added thereto.

There is no change in the essential nature of the Committee being proposed, no change in its purpose or function in the legislative process. What is being proposed is a packing of the Committee, so that special interest groups can ram through their legislation under a "'closed rule" procedure.

The Rules Committee has not held up legislation when there has been enough demand or interest for it. The four major issues, medical aid to aged, aid to deducation, minimum wage and depressed area legislation, advocated by the Administration, were cleared by the Rules Committee in the last Congress.

THE RULES Committee is a favorite whipping boy, but its critics have failed to inform the public of two facts. First, the Rules Committee is controlled by the party which controls Congress. Second, even if it wanted to the Committee could not hold back legislation whose passage is considered vital by the majority leadership.

A man with the power and authority of the Speaker, a man who has been Speaker twice as long as any other American and a Speaker who is backed up by the Majority Leader, can get any legislation he wants out of any committee. If he can't, then he lacks leadership ability and one could hardly say that about the present Speaker — he rules with an iron hand.

There are many ways to do this and some of them are being put into practice here this weekend. In addition to these less obvious ones, there are three methods of getting bills out of Committee to the Floor.

One — a Discharge Petition, signed by a simple majority, dis-

President Seeks End to Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, solemnly calling this a time of national emergency with the Communist tide running dangerously against America, today announced he has ordered swift bolstering of U.S. military defenses.

In his first State of the Union message, the President said the orders provide for an immediate speed-up in Polaris submarine construction and in development and production of missiles, and for prompt increase in air-lift capacity to deal with "any problem at any spot on the globe at any moment's notice."

But in his address to Congress and the country, Kennedy also pledged his administration to exploration of "all possible areas of cooperation with the Soviet Union and other nations" to invoke the wonders of nuclear and space science instead of the terrors.

He specifically invited the Solet Union to join with the United States now in a science space program "which some day may unlock the deepest secrets of the universe."

In the political and diplomatic areas, Kennedy noted he already has taken steps aimed at expanding and coordinating the nation's disarmament effort.

"The deadly arms race, and the huge resources it absorbs, have too long overshadowed all else we do. We must prevent that arms race from spreading to new nations, to new nuclear powers and the reaches of outer space."

Reporting on his study of world problems since taking office, the crises multiply. Each day their solution grows more difficult. Each day we draw nearer the hour of maximum danger, a weapons spread and hostile forces grow stronger.

"I feel I must inform the Congress that our analyses over the last 10 days make it clear that—in each of these principal areas of crisis—the tide of events has been running out and time has not been our friend."

"In Asia, the relentless pressures of the Communist Chinese menace the security of the entire area," Kennedy said.

"In Africa, the Congo has been brutally torn by civil strife. . .

"In Latin America, Communist agents have established a base on Cuba.

"In Europe, our alliances are unfulfilled and in some disarray. The unity of NATO has been weakened by economic rivalry and partially eroded by national interest. . ."

Over-all, Kennedy said, the first great obstacle to solution of these problems "is still our relations with the Soviet Union and Communist China."

"We must never be lulled into believing that either power has yielded its ambitions for world domination," he added.

As for his orders for a three-way speedy bolstering of the nation's defenses, Kennedy said:

The Polaris submarine construction program pace will be accelerated by nine months by using unobligated ship-building funds. This will add units to a fleet "that never will attack first, but (will) possess suffcient powers of retaliation, concealed beneath the seas, to discourage any aggressor from launching an attack on our security."

Stepping up the missile program calls currently for improved organization and decision making—on cutting down wasteful duplications and time lag that have handicapped the whole family of missiles.

Kennedy, speaking before a joint session of the House and Senate and to a nationwide television and radio audience, said that despite the current urgent need for greater military might until tensions ease, arms control and disarmament will be "a central goal of our national policy." He called for new efforts to end the arms race.

Meanwhile, he said: "The tide is unfavorable. Life in 1961 will not be easy. There will be further set-backs before the tide is turned. But turn it we must. The hopes of all mankind rest upon us."

The youthful President dealt mostly with the world situation, which he painted in somber tones.

There also was a note of graveness in what he had to say about the home front.

"In short," he declared, "the American economy is in trouble."

He said that for the last seven months business has been in the heroes of recession. He said further that there have been "three and half years of slack, seven years of diminished economic growth, and nine years of falling farm income."

Fire Halts Water Supply

Williamsport was left without water early Sunday when fire damaged the village pumping house.

Deputy Sheriff Alva Boyer said the blaze apparently was caused by a gas heater. The fire was reported here at 5:20 a. m.

Deputy Boyer said the inside and roof of the building, located at the southeast edge of Williamsport, was damaged. He said pump controls also were damaged.

Units of the Williamsport Fire Department were dispatched to the scene.

Faculty Cage Tournament Slated by March of Dimes

A new concept of cage warfare will take the spotlight next week when Pickaway County's four school districts engage in a Faculty tournament.

The tournament will be conducted on behalf of the New March of Dimes campaign here. All money derived will be donated to the drive.

Slated to participate in the February 7 and 8 meetings are the Westfall, Teays Valley, Logan Elm and Circleville School Districts. The games will be played at the Circleville High School gymnasium.

Drawings for the tourney were hed Saturday in the office of George McDowell, county school superintendent. Taking part were McDowell, Circleville Superintendent George Hartman, March of Dimes campaign director David Crawford and chapter workers Marcus Albright and Paul Smallwood.

THE first game, slated February 7, involves West Fall vs. Logan Elm. The second test is Teays Valley vs Circleville. The first battle will start at 7 p. m. and the other will follow at about 8:30.

Championship meetings will follow the next night. The consolation game will start at 7, followed by the title bout.

A handsome trophy will go to the champion team, according to Crawford. Present plans call for it to be a rotating award.

The various faculty teams already have started practice in anticipation of the tests. So far a favorite has not been picked.

Albright, a coach and teacher at Logan Elm, formulated plans for the tournament.

In a greater effort to make the fruits of science available to all.

Cross-Petition Filed in Building Contract Lawsuit

An answer and cross petition in the case of the Circleville Lumber Co. against David Block, Moses Block, Albert Kerns Jr., and others was filed today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

The Blocks asked that Albert Kerns Jr. be made a party to the suit. They also declare no agreement was ever made with the plaintiff Circleville Lumber Co. They also say they paid Kerns $7,550 to remodel the Circleville Motors building which they own, an amount which was to have paid any liens against them.

The cross petition states that Kerns, who was to remodel the building, did his work carelessly and negligently and damaged the building in the sum of $10,000. This petition also states that additional $1,500 will have to be spent to complete the original work. The Blocks asked judgment of $11,500 against Kerns.

164 Yankees Evacuated in Congo Move

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The United Nations announced today 164 American missionaries and their families were evacuated over the weekend from pro-Lumumba Oriental Province.

A U. N. spokesman also confirmed reports of an armed clash between rebel soldiers and forces loyal to President Joseph Kasavubu's government at Basoko, a town on the Congo River within 100 miles of Stanleyville, the rebel capital.

Unconfirmed Congolese reports said an attacking force of Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu's army thrust deeply into rebel territory by river boat after defeating rebel forces at the border town of Bumba last week. Fragmentary accounts of heavy casualties have reached the capital.

The American missionaries, believed to be from the interdenominational Inland African Mission, were picked up by roving patrols and taken to the town of Mahaghi, near the Uganda border.

They were escorted by Ethiopian U. N. forces into Uganda by road.

Tribe Ends King's Rule In Africa

USUMBURA, Ruanda-Urundi (AP)—Native officials of Ruanda have deposed Mwami (king) Kigeri V, abolished the monarchy and set up a republic.

The action by 3,200 burgomasters and municipal councilors represented a triumph for the Bahutu tribe over its traditional enemies, the Watutsis, who once ruled this east-central African land.

Elected president is Mbonyumutwa, a Bahutu chief who was the target of an attempted assassination by Watutsi warriors in the bloody tribal warfare in 1959.

While the officials elected their own government, including a legislature and a Supreme Court, they announced the republic recognizes the United Nations trusteeship that Belgium administers.

The Bahutu officials took the issue of self-rule into their own hands. Because of tribal strife, the U.N. recommended postponement of first legislative elections scheduled for this month. Belgium agreed and set a new election date.

Believing the U.N. wanted to bring back Kigeri, now in Europe, municipal officials hurriedly called the assembly.

The offcials met Saturday to act.

U.S. Congo Envoy To Aid in Studies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. ambassador to Leopoldville, Clare H. Timberlake, is coming to Washington to help in a reappraisal of U.S. policy in the Congo ordered by President Kennedy.

Authoritative sources said over the weekend that Timberlake will sit in on high-level conferences in the White House and State Department.

The most immediate problem is how U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold can continue U. N. efforts on the Congo if some African nations withdraw their troops from the U. N. force in protest.

Woman Enters Guilty Plea in Bank Thefts

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP)—Mrs. Burnice Iverson Geiger, accused embezzler of $2 million from her father's bank, pleaded guilty of 35 counts in U.S. District Court today.

Judge Henry N. Graven deferred sentencing pending a pre-sentencing investigation and continued bond at $10,000. She did not immediately post bond.

She could conceivably get 175 years in prison. The penalty for embezzlement is five years in prison or $5,000 fine or both on each count.

Mrs. Geiger, 58, assistant cashier and a member of the board of Sheldon National Bank, had waived indictment by a grand jury which was scheduled to convene today.

She also waived reading of a 38-page information filed by U.S. Dist. Atty. F. E. Van Alstine.

The entire proceedings took about 10 minutes. Mrs. Geiger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Iverson of Sheldon, was escorted the one block from the county courthouse to the federal building by U.S. Deputy Marshal Robert Baley, Miss Dorothy O'Neill, a matron in the sheriff's office, and Chief of Police James O'Keefe.

Mrs. Geiger was nattily dressed in a green velveteen bonnet, a brown fur-trimmed coat and a tan dress. She had a slight smile on her face during the walk to court.

It was the first time she has left her jail cell since her arrest Jan. 16 when federal bank examiner uncovered the $2,126,859 shortage at Sheldon National Bank.

The bank was closed by the embezzlement and taken over by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which has been paying off its more than 2,000 depositors.

Stock Mart Prices Climb

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made a substantial advance in heavy trading early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.10 at 233.70 with industrials up 1.70, rails up .40 and utilities up .60.

Key stocks rose from fractions to 2 points or so.

Aircraft-missiles, steels, motors, rails, utilities, coppers, electrical equipments, tobaccos, chemicals and electronics were among the gainers.

Wall Street was anticipating a program of antirecession steps by President Kennedy. The list also was heartened by the strong performance of market averages on Friday when upside barriers were hurdled.

Corporate bonds advanced. U.S. government bonds were firm.

State Publishes Economic Data

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The most complete set of statistics and economic data yet assembled by the Ohio Department of Industrial and Economic Development was printed today.

The study, titled "Statistical Abstract of Ohio: 1960," contains 239 pages of detailed information on the state with divisions for all 88 counties, metropolitan areas and various subdivisions. It also compares Ohio industry and business with other states'.

It is said to be the first statistical abstract ever published in the state to contain everything from manufacturing statistics to the various religious denominations—and their membership size — in Ohio.

Copies can be obtained from the Department of Industrial and Economic Development.

Brazil To Install New President, Enter Another Era

Editor's Note — Brazil, most populous nation in the Western Hemisphere after the United States, enters a new era Tuesday with inauguration of a president exactly the age of President Kennedy. Here is a report on the prospects, written by AP's globe-trotting news analyst, currently on a tour of Latin America.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A new leadership is about to take over in Brazil, a stirring giant of a country where thinking people seem suddenly aware of its vast possibilities and its growing complex of political and economic dangers.

Janio Quadros, school-teacherish, enigmatic man sometimes called a political genius, takes his oath as president Tuesday. He will plunge into a sea of trouble. Time is his most urgent need, and he hasn't much of it in which to perform on the promises and hopes which lected him to office.

Just a few of his problems:

Brazil suffers from a variety of agricultural crises. A violent inflation outruns lower and middle incomes. A struggle is in prospect with labor, now the target of increased Communist pressure. There is a dangerous bread crisis in the offing. A variety of external pressures can force Quadros to compromise with leftists and extremists.

And some of the potentialities:

Many Brazilians seem determined to awaken their country from a long apathy that brought economic stagnation. They see now a chance to open up the huge undeveloped interior and make Brazil, in a matter of a decade, a mighty force in the world. They see a chance for reforms attacking the enormous evils of poverty and disease.

Brazilians express concern with the growth of Communist strength in the labor movement and—especially in the poor northeast — among despairing farmers living on the razor edge of starvation. The Communists are relatively small in numbers—possibly 40,000 or so—for a nation of 60 million, but they make up for that in organization and discipline. They have a hold on the leadership of many a labor union.

Brazilians are concerned, too, with a perceptible undercurrent of unrest that can rise to the surface any time, particularly if there should be a new wheat crisis.

Brazil imports her wheat. But now she no longer can afford the outlay of foreign exchange for import of food. Only hasty action by the United States is staving off a wheat crisis now, and another may rise again in six more months.

Communism is considered, both by Brazilians and foreign observers, a much greater danger than Castroism. Communists have been making alliances with nationalist elements. The party grows stronger rapidly, and this may have been a factor in deciding Quadros to make gestures in the direction of Fidel Castro of Cuba.

He visited Castro in Havana last March but said later he would be the first to condemn a Communist Cuba.

Castro himself normally would have little impact in Brazil. The Yankee-baiting Cuban prime minister is considered an unbalanced young upstart by many Brazilians.

In addition, Brazil has been a good friend of the United States—possibly the best in the hemisphere. Brazilians themselves are peace-loving, outgiving and friendly.

But Castroism has an indirect impact by demonstrating the potency of violent action in focusing attention on nations' woes. That is how the Communists of Brazil use Castroism.

The Communists appear to detest Quadros, and his election was a setback for them. There are indications they will do their best to give him a bad time as quickly as possible, primarily in the field of labor.

Some Brazilians say Quadros' expressed intention of renewing diplomatic relations with the U.S.S.R. and recognizing Red China indicates an attempt to buy time, to keep extremists off his back while he turns attention to cures for Brazil's major economic troubles.

Quadros would be unworried by the label of "neutralism," a vague word at best. In Brazil, recognizing the Red nations likely would be regarded as an expression of national sovereignty and independent policy and not necessarily turning away from friendship with the United States.

Given a little time, Quadros likely will attack the biggest problem, inflation, first. This may require some austerity measures. When he tries this he can expect trouble from labor, egged on by Communist union leadership.

Brazilian law limits union activity. The labor ministry can intervene in union affairs. Yet there have been strikes recently, even against the government, in defiance of the law. And there will be a drive for union independence from the labor ministry, whose efforts under President Juscelino Kubitschek kept Communist influence from growing more swiftly.

Kennedy Says U.S. Economy Is in Trouble

Kennedy sketched in general terms a program for dealing with this matter, saying his administration "does not intend to stand helplessly by." He promised to detail the program in special messages to Congress during the next two weeks. The remedies he outlined broadly are largely those he advocated during the presidential campaign.

The President said that barring development of urgent national defense needs or a worsening of the economy, proposals he advances in all fields "will not of and by themselves unbalance the budget" he inherited from the Eisenhower regime. It calls for outlay of $80.9 billion and a surplus of $1.4 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1.

However, Kennedy made it plain he is not blindly wedded to the idea of a balanced budget.

"We will do," he said, "what needs to be done. For our national household is cluttered with unfinished and neglected tasks."

In the monetary field regarding the balance of payments problem and the related flow of gold from the United States Kennedy promised new steps to ease the situation.

But he also said: "This administration will not distort the value of the dollar in any fashion. That is a pledge. This administration intends, in short, to back up all our efforts abroad, and to make certain that, in the future as in the past, the dollar is 'as sound as a dollar.'"

Speaking of the Communist threat, Kennedy said that during his first 10 days in office he had been staggered to learn of "the harsh enormity of the (international) trials through which we must pass in the next four years."

As a result of a global review with key advisers, Kennedy said, he has instructed Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara "to reappraise our entire defense strategy" and make a preliminary report by the end of February.

Kennedy pictured the Communist menace as so serious that he has ordered an immediate strengthening of defenses on three fronts—Polaris submarines, missiles and the air-lift operation.

"I speak today," Kennedy said, "in an hour of national peril and national emergency. Before my term has ended, we shall have to test anew whether a nation governed and organized such as ours can endure.

"The outcome is by no means certain. The answers are by no means clear."

Kennedy said "we must re-examine and revise our whole arsenal of tools" for dealing with the threat to the free world — economic, political and diplomatic as well as military tools.

"We are moving into a period of uncertain risk in which both the military and diplomatic possibilities require a free world force so powerful as to make any aggression clearly futile," Kennedy said.

In the field of economic aid abroad, he called the problems towering and unprecedented.

"The response must be towering and unprecedented as well, much as lend-lease (in World War II) and the Marshall plan (of the post war years) were."

Kennedy singled out Latin-American countries for special aid, after saying that "Communist agents seeking to exploit that region's peaceful revolution of hope have established a base on Cuba, only 90 miles from our shores."

Oscar Fever Now Grips Hollywood Movie Colony

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Strange things are happening in Hollywood at this time of year.

The studios are giving away free movie tickets. Months-old movie are turning up in first-run theaters. Stars considered unapproachable are out cutting ribbons and doing anything to get themselves in print.

The cause for this strange bahavior? Oscar fever, which infects the community every year at this time.

Ballots for the major Academy awards will be mailed to voters this week. That means the fever will be reaching its primary, or nomination, stage. The peak will come in March, when final balloting takes place.

These are times that gladden the hearts of all trade paper ad salesmen. Every morning when readers open the daily Variety or Hollywood Reporter, they are greeted with little reminders—at approximatly $300 a page.

There is Alfred Hitchcock's pudgy figure reminding folks not to forget "Psycho." Academy members are urged to call up for free tickets to "Spartacus." There is Shirley Jones in a slip to recall her work as Lulu in "Elmer Gantry."

"Oscar-wise . . ." begins the daily ad for "The Apartment." Read what the critics said about Greer Garson in "Sunrise at Campobello." Here are two pages with 100 quotes about "The Alamo." And don't for get Milton Berle in "Let's Make Love."

This cannonading continues for weeks, with a vast expenditure. Estimates of an Academy campaign for a single picture range from $10,000 to $35,000.

How is an Oscar campaign run? The obvious devices are the trade paper ads. Other means:

1. Secure a list of Academy members — the academy won't give it out, but lists are bootlegged. Invite them to special screenings.

2. Arrange for a picture to be reshown at a local theater.

3. Place posters around the studio to remind loyal employes.

4. Keep the stars in the public eye via press and TV.

Why all the effort and expense to court Oscar? Much of it is to salve egos. But hard economics figure in the campaigns, too. A rule of thumb says that an Academy Award can increase a film's earnings from a half-million to a million, according to whose thumb you use.

Ohio Air Guard Units Slated for Inspection

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Tactical Air Command, the Air Force organization which is "parent" to the Ohio Air National Guard, will send inspectors to air guard units at Mansfield, Columbus and Springfield this week.

The annual inspection is to study the capability of air guardsmen to meet various emergencies and carry out normal duties. A critique will be conducted at the close of the Saturday & Sunday weekend drill period for the citizen-airmen.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—That ancient struggle between a president and Congress — sometimes oiled over, sometimes quietly sullen, sometimes raw and bleeding—began anew today.

Like windswept Robert Frost's poem, President Kennedy's tidy inaugural address was the disciplined expression of a spirit which showed itself both human and humane.

Much that he said Kennedy can carry out on his own through the powers of the presidency.

But on the broad meat-and-potatoes level of government there is much he can't do without the help of Congress which must give approval for both spending money and starting programs.

So today in his State of the Union message Kennedy had to come face to face for the first time as president with a Congress where he himself served 14 years.

Because he knows it well he knows the endless struggle to get action on what he wants. Congress can be led easily only in moments of frightening emergency, like war or depression.

Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower could bear witness to this.

True, Congress is run by Kennedy's own Democrats because they outnumber the Republicans. But the real control is in the hands of the conservatives of both parties, as it has been for years.

Their policy is to move slowly, if at all. Eisenhower learned that. But he was a conservative, too, and it is one reason he and Congress got along so well.

Kennedy, despite his talk of new frontiers, may turn out to be no boat-rocker, either. He indicated at his news conference last week he intends to keep hands off the inner workings of Congress. This may be taken to mean he will avoid interfering publicly.

But he also knows that unless he and his team pull the strings behind the scenes his programs will die in the cradle.

Since the war this country has gone hrough two phases. It is not clear yet whether the years ahead will be a third one or a continuation of an old one.

The first was the postwar Truman phase which lasted eight years. It was a turbulent time of adjusting to peace, of labor strife, inflation, industrial expansion, trouble with Russia, even of suspicion of the government itself in the form of McCarthyism.

It was an era of transition from terrible power, the atomic bomb, to incredible power, the hydrogen bomb. It was the time when America finally abandoned isolationism for internationalism.

It was a period which cried for, and got, innovations in the form of foreign aid, military alliances, and bases around Russia.

Eisenhower apparently looked on himself not as an innovator but as a restorer of peace at home and a preserver of peace abroad. He tried nothing really new but America became prosperous and there was no war.

His was also the time when the world moved into the jet and missile age. It was a time when this country and Russia, while avoiding war, consolidated forces and prepared for what might become war.

At this point Kennedy steps in. There is peace at home but the world, still without war, is in upheaval.

Miami Students Told To 'Stay Excited'

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Hugh S. Bradner, nuclear physicist, told Miami University midwinter graduates Sunday to remember, "Sometimes harsh actions are needed for reaching honorable goals."

Dr. Bradner, 1937 Miami grad now with the University of California at Berkeley, was chief speaker at graduation ceremonies at which he was given an honorary doctorate in science.

He said, "Try to stay excited about learning new facts and gaining better understanding. Try to decide what actions will produce the ethical result, not merely what is the ethical action."

High Schoolers Semi-Literate

The Ivy League is widely regarded as a refuge and retreat for non-violent intellectuals, who would shun controversy as foreign to their natures. But now two Ivy League professors have scoured the intellectual hide off the nation's college students in language which would make a literate drill sergeant green with envy.

Speaking in defense of the mind, which Brand Blandshard of Yale said:

"Against the partisan slogans, the pollyanna faiths, the self - righteousness nationalism of our time, the nightmare art and beatnik poetry, the erotic stage, the violent television, the perpetual adolescence of the screen, there is perhaps no full protection. But the best I know is that habit of detached and critical reflection which belongs to the philosophical spirit."

J. N. Douglas Bush, Harvard English professor, said most students entering college have read little literature, know almost nothing about the classics, and cannot write a page of good English. It may be surmised, he said, that "a large proportion of these are only semi-literate when they receive the degree of bachelor of arts."

The professors may have to scratch to find an argument. Many educators, trapped in constant proliferation of duties and functions, will agree—at least privately — with their views. In many cases schools have taught students how to drive, dance, run a lathe, go steady, and adapt to their environment—at the expense of reading, and mental discipline as essential tools for all further learning.

Climate Affects Your Health

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Climate does affect your health.

If you dwelt on a tropical isle, you'd be less likely to get an ulcer, a heart attack or a mental ailment. On the other hand, here in the good old temperate U.S.A., you are likely to live longer, have more energy, be more creative, and suffer fewer infectious diseases.

Ever wonder how heavy a cloud is? The average cloud weighs about 300,000 pounds.

The Captain Eats Alone

By George Sokolsky

Ours is a continuing government. It never goes out of existence, as some other governments do when there is a change. In this continuous government, controlled by a written Constitution, there have been 35 Presidential terms—some lasting four years; some eight; only one longer than eight.

The President of the United States is a powerful official but he is neither a potentate nor a dictator. He holds office by the will of the people who have several ways of showing their satisfaction and dissatisfaction. And they, the American people, do not limit their judgement to politics and economics, but they are very jealous of a President's conduct in office, his habits, his manners, his courtesies, his "good conduct," as the phrase goes.

The position of the president is lonely. If his nature is gregarious, he is forced, by the character of his office, to curb his taste. Herbert Hoover who is a Quaker and a modest man was shocked when his most intimate friends referred to him as "Mr. President," instead of Herbert. But he, like all other, soon enough realized that part of the job is maintaining the dignity of the office. It is like wearing the proper clothes on the proper occasion.

There is an old saying, "The Captain eats alone," which is true in all navies, although on passenger ships the Captain does a public relations job and eats with customers. The question is what barriers a President can let down without letting all of them down. Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt were like - minded in their interest in people whose names appeared in the news.

Franklin D. Roosvelt was interested in Hollywood folks and had them to the White House. Ever after, some of the mummers regarded themselves as outstanding students of politics and many ended in difficulties with committees of Congress.

President Eisenhower liked successful men, those who received big salaries or owned large businesses. He surrounded himself with such and was usually misinformed about the nation by them. For thee tycoons represent a very small segment of the proletariat, earning their wages and fringe benefits the same as any other employees of widely-diffused ownership of corporate wealth. The test of their capacity is to observe them when they are forced to retire at a comparatively early age to twiddle their thumbs because they have not developed intense life interest outside their business. Of course, there are notable exceptions.

John Kennedy will establish his reputation as a President during his first three or four month. After that, things are liable to be routine. It is the first impact with the country that is important to him and to the people. It is not what he does and says, but how he does things, how he presents his problems to the nation, how he comport himself that matters.

It can be said that Mr. Kennedy has already won the good - will of the country. Television helped her. Her natural beauty, her composure her dignity is what Americans like. The fact that she went to bed at a reasonable hour, leaving the Inaugural festivities when her part in them was properly over made a very good impression. The torch, as the President said, has passed to youth and the manners of a nation are set by those on top. It appears that Mrs. Kennedy may set a new tone in manners. It looks, however, as though with youth will come no Beatniks.

The Hundred Days — as they are called — are any President's grand opportunity to create the atmosphere for himself to establish leadership. Franklin D. Roosevelt took full advantage of this period. He came out of it a very strong man — a strength which he never lost. This was not true of President Eisenhower who was more popular before his election that at any time during his first term. He did much better during his second term.

Presidents sometimes suffer from greatness: others suffer from a desire to be exactly as they were before they were elected to this high office. Harding never changed; Woodrow Wilson became overweening and jealous of his high estate in the world. High office can bring out unexpected characteristics in a man's nature. On the other hand, there are those who understand that when it is all over, some may even remember them on their birthday.

Try and Stop Me

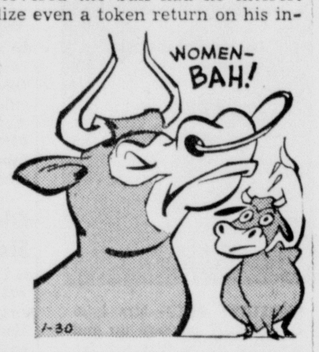
A HOPEFUL SPECULATOR bought a champion bull for $25,000, but soon discovered the bull had no interest whatever in cows. To realize even a token return on his investment, he was reduced to exhibiting the bull at state fairs, charging a quarter for admission.



In Utah, one prospective customer boasted to the bull's owner, "I've got more wives and more children than any man alive in this state."

"How many children?" asked the owner.

"Ninety-six," said the man.

"Come in and have a look at my champion bull," begged the owner. "There's no charge. I really don't care whether or not you see my bull. I want my bull to see you!"

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy today joins President Eisenhower in setting forth the State of the Union.

But for millions of Americans the state of the family's economy is pretty well summed up in another report: The rising cost of living.

And the slide rule boys, without much of a glance at world and domestic political turmoils, think that the outlook for the index of consumer prices is in for more of the same.

That is, still rising. Slowly, probably. But surely.

The family heads, furthermore, know that the index doesn't cover everything. There are other costs that keep going up. The cost of putting the children through school, for example. The cost now looming on the horizon of updating the womenfolk in line with the latest fashion news from Paris. The cost of many another on a long list of items that deal with status—in the neighborhood, at the office.

Maybe these don't belong in a factual index like the Bureau of Labor Statistic's one on consumer prices. This considers the things that the average middle-income family in cities buy.

The BLS changes the contents of the index from time to time, to keep up with changing consumer habits. But always there are those extras—the ones that the family income earner learns about quickly, even if the BLS doesn't.

It's index covers plenty of things however. Almost all of them have gone up this past year. The BLS officials say price levels probably will go right on creeping higher this year, as they did last year.

You remember last year? That's the year the experts told you to stop worrying about inflation. It was a dead issue. In financial circles it was. But in family circles inflation usually means the cost of living, monetary experts to the contrary, notwithstanding.

The BLS index uses the 1947-49 average as a base of 100. It reports the December figure as 127.5. A year ago the index was 125.5.

Biggest gainer, both in 1960 and in the long haul since the 1947-49 era is medical care. It is now carried at 158.0, a really whopping rise. In 1960 it went up 4.8 from the 153.2 a year ago.

The next biggest advance over the stretch from the starting point is rent, now 142.8, and up 2.0 in the last year.

Food, however, is the biggest culprit of recent weeks. Much of the latest price rise is blamed on bad weather that sent up delivery costs and caused shortages. That part of the index is now 121.4, a gain of 3.6 in a year.

The BLS lists other year-to-year rises as follows: Gas and electricity, up 2.9; housing and recreation, each up 1.9; apparel, up 1.4.

Then we come to the heroes in the latest figures on the index, those that are lower than in December 1959.

Transportation is down by 2.2. Much of the drop is credited to the popularity of the compacts, which cost less to buy and to run. But the current index level of transportation is 146.5, second only to medical care in the increase over the 1947-49 base.

House furnishings are running 0.3 lower than the year ago figures, and their gain over the base year is the lowest in the index. They stand at 103.9.

Fuels other than gas and electricity also are 0.3 below the year ago index, but the latest reading is 137.0, while gas and electricity is 125.6.

What's likely to go up more?

Well, bad weather could keep food higher for a time, and this year's crops are still in the weatherman's hands.

As for the rest, there are the conflicting forces: Competition holding down prices of many goods, but warring with rising production costs. And there's still no sign that the cost of services has reached a peak.

Rising Unemployment Eyed By Business, Government

NEW YORK (AP)—Rising unemployment — and what to do about it—worried business and government alike this week.

It was disclosed that the number of workers drawing unemployment compensation in the week ended Jan. 7 totaled 3,289,000. This was an increase of 228,900 in one week.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg called the situation "very grave."

He estimated the January overall total of unemployed at 5.5 million, up one million from mid-December.

"There is deep concern about the unemployment compensation area—and a strong feeling that the government must extend help," said Goldberg after conferring with President Kennedy.

The President was expected to outline his views on this subject and to propose actions to stimulate the lagging economy in a special message to Congress.

President Kennedy has ordered increased distribution of surplus food to the needy. This will involve addition of meat and eggs to the list of foods already being distributed in areas of acute unemployment.

Manufacturers, plagued by high inventories of unsold products, laid off many workers. This was particularly true in the automobile industry, where production was down substantially from late 1960 levels.

Auto output for the week was an estimated 98,846. While this was 4.9 per cent above the previous week, it was 43 per cent below a year ago, when the companies were making up for cutbacks resulting from the st strike.

Production schedules for the balance of January and for February were reported being cut to match a slow sales pace.

The steel industry made a little labored progress in bolstering output. Production last week totaled 1,499,000 tons, compared with 1,482,000 the prior week.

The Labor Department reported the cost of living climbed to another new high in December for the 10th increase in 11 months.

The department's consumer price index advanced a tenth of one per cent between November and December to 127.5 per cent of the 1947-49 level. Higher costs of food and shelter were mainly responsible.

Robert J. Meyers, deputy commissioner of labor statistics, made the drab prediction that living costs will go up one or two per cent this year.

Retail trade took a beating from the weather this week. Snow and cold in the Midwest and Northeast caused volume to sink six to 10 per cent below a year ago.

Despite the spate of gloomy developments, the expectation appeared growing among economists and business men that business is headed for an upturn about the middle of the year.

Many believe this would mainly result from depletion of top-heavy inventories and from pump-priming actions of the new administration.

A stimulating indication was the announcement that a huge volume of construction contracts awarded in December — $2,717,701,000—nudged the total for 1960 to a record high of $36,317,629,000.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange for the week was 21,899,864 shares compared with 20,734,470 the previous week.

In bonds the daily volume of corporate trading on the New York exchanged topped $7 par value in each session. The weekly total of $38,216,000 was the best since $44,640,000 Sept. 21-25, 1959. The volume of the previous week was $33,298,000.

Briefly around the business scene: American Telephone & Telegraph Co. plans to install public phones on airplanes next summer. . . . Life insurance sales in 1960 totaled $72,285,000,000, up about $1.2 billion over 1959. . . . . Remington Rand abandoned plans to shift standard typewriter production from Elmira, N.Y., to Europe. . . . Record dividends of $13,575,100,000 were paid by corporations last year. . . . The electric utility industry plans to spend nearly $5 billion on capital improvements in 1961.

Elderly Man Now Sits on the Job

RICHMOND, Va.(AP) — Morning after morning for months, rain or shine, an elderly man put a loaf of bread under his arm and walked 14 blocks to watch a construction project.

He smiled but spoke to no one because he didn't know their language. Workmen on the project noticed the old man in the gray mustache as he watched them.

"Let's build him a chair," one suggested.

They did, and now Thomas Stavredes, nearing 90, will watch the completion of his church, the Sts. Thomas and Helen Greek Orthodox Church, in comfort. He was once a carpenter himself in the little port town of Piraeus in Greece.

Harsha Against Rules Changes

charging the Committee from further action.

Two — a suspension of the rules can accomplish the same purpose.

Three — the procedure known as "Calendar Wednesday" also will accomplish this. On Wednesday of each week, the Speaker calls each standing Committee in alphabetical order. A Committee when named may call up for consideration any bill reported by it on a previous day and pending on the House or Union Calendar.

As you can see none of these methods presents a problem to the majority leadership. Therefore the claim that the Rules Committee bottles up legislation is an unjustified one.

The real issue and a very dangerous one is the aim of a special interest group to gain control of the Rules Committee so it can present legislation when it chooses under a closed rule, thereby, preventing any debate or any amendments thereto.

The minority could not question the legislation, could not offer any corrections, deletions or amendments. They could not debate or offer their reasons for being pro or con on the legislation. By the same token the majority would be hamstrung and prevented from expressing their views.

If you were not on the legislative committee that considered the bill or on the Rules Committee, then chances are you would not know what the bill is about because of the tremendous volume of bills before Congress — already in the thousands for the 87th Congress.

IT IS physically and mentally impossible to know the contents, implications and ramifications of every bill before Congress. There fore the minority and even the majority would not and could not understand the legislation upon which they were voting.

How under such circumstances could you vote intelligently? The people represented by the minority would be denied effective repre sentation.

Isn't this half of the country entitled to representation just as much as the other? Aren't they entitled to have a voice in government? Aren't they entitled to freedom of expression through their representatives?

After all, half of the people voting in this country are not in favor of the Administration's program—at least they voted against it.

Futhermore the packing of this Committee would establish a dangerous precedent. If this were done — then any Committee could be packed for any reason of any special interest group. This is not Americanism. Only through equitable rules, based on sound judgment, fairly administered with the welfare of all in mind, can a "Republic in a Democracy" flourish And only under such a system can the two party system survive.

In addition to this, legislation should be able to stand on its merits. If it's good for the country it can be defended and justified.

I, for one, would support any legislation that was in the best interests of the country and my district regardless of who its proponents were or how the other members of Congress voted on it. If the legislation can stand on its merits it isn't necessary to use devious methods or a packing procedure to get it passed.

There is no justifiable need for packing the Rules Committee.

CARLTON GLENN OLSON

(In co-operation with J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, this paper is running descriptive articles on the criminals wanted by the FBI.)

CARLTON GLENN OLSON is being sought by the FBI for interstate transportation of a stolen motor vehicle. Shortly after the far-roving, fast talking, used car thief allegedly transported a stolen car from Bakersfield, Calif., to West Helena, Ark., a federal warrant was issued at Little Rock, Ark., on March 6, 1959.

The wanted man reportedly poses as a prospective buyer and when permitted to try out the automobile in which he is interested, fails to return it. Because of extensive travels in the United States, Olson earned his reputation as a far-roving fugitive. She Thinks Homespuns Are Too Homely

Should a girl object to her clothes just because her mother makes them? ,

Q. "I am 17, a high school junior. I am very popular in school, but I must refuse many interesting parties because of my clothes. Every girl in our group wears clothes that are bought. I'm the exception. I wear homemade clothes. I've begged my mother to pool all the money she spends on fabric, to buy just one pretty dress that looks up-to-date, but she thinks this is ridiculous. I would not embarrass any boy by wearing a dance dress she makes for me. Don't you think she should permit me to buy a dress occasionally?"

'. The idea of wearing a homemade dress may offend you, not the dress. Aren't you more in fear of the attitude of the girls toward your homemade dresses?

Boys never give them a thought. They like girls to look attractive, and dressed in good taste. If your mother's choice of patterns or fabrics can be improved upon, then you can solve the problem by asking to accompany her when she busy them. Dresses that are made at home often are prettier, and bought in shops. Many girls prefer dresses made by their mothers to those they could purchase.

Are your girl friends snobbish, and do you want to accommodate their pettiness? The proper spirit would be to make a special point of praising every dress made for you.

A letter from a girl wonders whether it is fair to keep "lots of boys on the string":

Q. "The girls who go to my school have steady beaus. I don't. I am 16 and I go out with quite a few boys, all of whom want to go out on this one-boy basis.

My mother has explained the disadvantages of going steady. She feels I will not be able to make a decision about marriage unless I go out with a great many boys. Do you think it is fair to tell these fellows that I will give some thought to their suggestions of going steady, if I know that I don't plan to? My mother says "All's fair in love and war. What do you think?"

A. A good idea would be to avoid discussing the question. Shut off the conversation by telling them you do not think you will be interested in one-boy date arrangements until you are engaged. Any boy should understand that. If he isn't willing to stay in the race, you haven't put your time on the right many anyway.

A letter from an 18-year-old girl has weekend problems:

Q. "I have been invited away for a football weekend at a college about a four - hour trip from my home. Parties will be after the game, and my date wants me to spend the night at the local hotel where other girls who plan to attend the parties will stay. My mother says that I can. My father says no. What do you think? He insists that he would rather pick me up when the last party is over than have me to spend the night away from home in a situation such as this."

A. Your parents must solve this. Your mother must persuade your father.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Pointed Comments

DEAR ABBY: A while back you started a campaign to get rid of the sack dress. How about a campaign to get rid of those horrible pointed shoes?

I have held out buying shoes for a year and my feet are almost back to normal again. There are just no comfortable, good-looking shoes to be had anymore. Even elderly women are hobbling around in those ridiculous pointed-toed, spindly-heeled shoes. And the steel tips are ruining everybody's linoleum and carpets! Gosh, Abby, can't you do something about it?

FOOTSORE AND WEARY

DEAR F. AND W.: I am told the women "love" the new pointed shoes. (Yes, and even the spindly heels that ruin the floor covering!) I may be a heel—but I am not sold!

DEAR ABBY: Some neighbors of ours were very friendly at first. Then all of a sudden they stopped coming to see us, so I went over there one night to see what was wrong.

Through the window I could see her and her husband sitting there watching television, but I couldn't get in because the screen door was latched. I wrote her in a letter telling her I thought it was insulting to lock up a house as tight as a bank so people couldn't even get up on the porch to ring the bell. She ignored my letter. Don't you think there is something wrong with people who lock themselves in?

FRIENDLY NEIGHBOR

DEAR FRIENDLY: Folks rarely lock themselves in—but they frequently lock others out. Latch on to some friendlier neighbors.

DEAR ABBY: My best girlfriend's husband is the type who "loves his wife but oh, you kid!" He tells her he has to work late, go to a meeting, etc., and in the meantime he is running around with other women.

She is a wonderful person. They have two small children. Do you think it's my place to tell her? This has been going on for about four years. They have been married for five.

A VERY GOOD FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: If you are truly "a very good friend"..... tell HIM, not her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TROUBLED TEEN": It's nice to be important, but it's more important to be nice.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply from Abby, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Smooth Chillicothe Drops Tigers in 66-47 Cage Battle

Once it got rolling, a smooth Chillicothe cage squad rolled to a 66 - 47 victory over Circleville here Saturday night.

Circleville made it a close contest in the first period and fashioned a rally in the final quarter, but could not muster enough to strength to unseat the veteran Cavalier squad.

The first quarter ended 12-10 in Chillicothe's favor, but the Central Ohio League co-leaders whooped it up in the second canto to take a 33-16 margin at halftime.

The score at the close of the third episode was 49-26 with the visitors out front. Circleville cut the lead to 51-40 at one point in the final quarter, but Chillicothe again widened the gap in the closing minutes.

FIRST quarter play was fast and furious as Circleville tied the count at 8-8 on Sam Weller's hook, then shot ahead on Garold Dade's bunny. Five quick points by Bob Patterson put the Cavaliers ahead again as the quarter closed.

Circleville suffered in the second quarter by scoring only six points, while Chillicothe zoomed for 21. Gary Hall, a fine performer for the Cavaliers, showed the way with seven points. For the Tigers it was Clesson Thomas hitting four foul shots and Luther Johnson connected on a drive.

Hall was the Chillicothe mainstay throughout as he collected 21 points. The 5-10 ace dropped in 21 points, including 13 of 15 foul shots. He now has 84 of 100 attempts from the foul line this season.

Dick Harris was another potent scorer for the Cavaliers with 20 points.

Thomas, a sophomore, was high for the Tigers with 13, several of the tallies coming on neat hooks.

Weller, hitting four of eight from the field, collected a total of 10 points. The Tigers were without the services of Bruce Barnes who was dismissed from the squad for disciplinary reasons.

CIRCLEVILLE collected 16 of 44 shots from the field for a 36.3 per cent average. The Cavaliers, currently owning a 11-2 record, fired for 42.3 per cent on 22 of 52.

Chillicothe, with Hall at the helm, hit 22 of 35 charity attempts. Circleville had 15 of 22.

The Circleville reserve squad gained revenge for an earlier defeat by handing the visitors a 40-36 lacing in a thriller.

Freddie Moore and Dave Hannhs provided the Kitten spark with 15 and 11 points respectively. Bob Waple added nine.

Allen and Glanton were high for Chillicothe with nine points each. Both Dave Bass and Dave Dennis turned in good floor games for the locals, especially on defense.

Next test for the Tigers is slated Friday when Washington C. H. comes here for an SCO engagement. One of the locals' two wins is over the Blue Lions.

Murrow Named To Head U.S. Information Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Edward R. Murrow of CBS news reportedly has been chosen by President Kennedy to head the U.S. Information Agency.

Murrow is well known to television viewers as the conductor of "Person to Person" and "See It Now." His trademarks were a furrowed brow, a deep voice, and a lighted cigarette.

Base Thieves Voted into Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—Max Carey and the late Billy Hamilton are the latest additions to baseball's Hall of Fame. The two former National League center fielders, famed for their base-stealing ability, will be inducted formally July 24 at the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Carey, 70, holder of the modern National League record for stolen bases with 738 in a 20-year career from 1910 to 1929 with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn, said in Miami Beach, Fla., he was "happy and proud of the honor of being selected." Max expects to be on hand personally when his plaque is dedicated.

Hamilton, who died in 1940, was one of the truly great stars of the pre-1900 days of baseball. He had a lifetime batting average of .344 while playing with Philadelphia and Boston from 1890 to 1901. Known as "Sliding Billy", he stole 797 bases, the all-time league record, in that span and also stole 140 with Kansas City in the American Association which considered itself a major league. If those were counted his total would be 937.

The two men were named Sunday by the veterans' committee, headed by Warren Brown of the Chicago American, which considers only men who have been inactive as players for at least 30 years. It was their first chance to honor Carey who previously had been under the jurisdiction of the baseball writers who select from among those out of baseball at least five years but not more than 30.

Flat Track Fails To Halt Sprinters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Flat tracks obviously don't frighten Al Lawrence or Ed Moran.

Each scored decisive victories on unbanked boards in the Star Games Saturday night.

Lawrence, the little Australian taking a radio-TV course at Houston University, turned in an outstanding 8:54.2 in the 2 mile. Moran, Penn State graduate student whose 4:08.3 mile here last year is the fastest known on a flat indoor track, repeated with a satisfactory 4:11.5 for the eight laps.

Woman, 61, Found Dead Along Railroad Track

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A woman tentatively identified as Vivian Foos, 61, of Caledonia, Marion County, was found dead Saturday alongside Pennsylvania Railroad tracks here, and sheriff's deputies theorized she had been hit by a train. She had been missing since Friday from Columbus State Hospital where she was a patient since 1938.

Ashville Captures Jr. Tourney Title

Ashville wrapped up the Pickaway County Junior High basketball crown Saturday night with a thriling 38-36 win over Saltcreek.

Tourney consolation honors went to Walnut which handed Washington Twp. a 25-23 defeat in another thriller. The champion tilts were played at Jackson Twp.

The Ashville - Saltcreek struggle kept fans on the edge of their seats all evening. Saltcreek held an early lead, but the young Broncos fought back stubbornly to edge ahead, 19-18, at halftime.

The Broncs roled to a 32-25 lead at the end of the third period, but then were forced to subdue a Saltcreek rally which threatened to turn the tide.

ASHVILLE'S onslaught was spearheaded by Roese who hit the mark for 15 points. Shreve and Roof had eight each.

Saltcreek, winners of the league championship, got valuable service from Lutz and Jordon with 13 tallies each. Spangler followed with eight.

Walnut won its contest over Washington with a fine comeback in the last quarter. The miniature Tigers trailed, 18-14, heading into the finale, but the rally saved the day.

Walnut's Brady hit for nine points to drive his team on. Hill aided the effort with eight.

Washington's able cagers were paced by Bill Hoffman who found the range for 11 points. Smith hit for four.

A special highlight of the evening was the presentation of the John McPherson Memorial Trophy to Jeff Lutz of Saltcreek.

THE award carries with it the distinction of being named the most outstanding 8th grade cager in the county. Lutz has been a sparkplug for Saltcreek all season and continued his fine play in the tournament.

The trophy stands as a memorial to John McPherson, popular Darby coach who died two years ago while attending a cage test. He spent many years at Darby as a varsity coach and devoted many years to heading the annual Junior High Tournament.

Another award went to Rodney Stauffer of Washington Twp. for his fine performance in the annual foul shooting contest. The ace charity tosser wrapped up the honors by sinking 19 of 25.

This years tournament was directed by Lawrence Fullen of Ashville.

Broncos Trip The Plains on 68-58 Count

Ashville's Broncos tucked another win under their belts Saturday night, defeating The Plains in a 68-58 tilt.

Both cage teams got off to an even start, ending the first period with a 16-16 knot. The Bronc squad broke away to gain an 8-point lead at half - time, 37-29.

The Plains picked up two points in the third period on a 47-41 count, but dropped behind another four points in the finale.

The Broncs were sparked by Tom Rathburn and Dick Hollenback. Rathburn had six field goals and 12 charities for 24 points. Hollenback pushed through eight baskets and four free throws for 20.

THE Mt. Sterling visitors' high man was Ron Furness. Headded 11 field goals and 1 free throw for 23 points.

The Plains reserve squad made a profitable trip by defeating the Broncs in a 50-31 test.

Freight Car Smashes Into Delaware Station

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Two freight cars left the tracks here Sunday and one smashed into the empty train station, tearing down two platform supports and a mailbox. No one was hurt in the derailment involving the 105 - car Chesapeake & Ohio freight train, en route from Toledo to Newport News, Va. But 500 feet of westbound track was ripped up.

South African Grabs Frisco Open Purse

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A cool South African lad, who idolizes Bobby Locke and intends to play at least 20 years more as a golf pro, was $9,500 wealthier today after winning the $57,000 San Francisco International Open with a blazing six-under-par 65 windup.

Husky Gary Player with almost machine-like accuracy scored six birdies in his final round Sunday to come from four strokes behind leaders George Bayer and Ted Kroll to win by two strokes, in a pouring rainstorm.

The 25-year-old Johannesburg star—on his seventh American tour since 1955—finished 12 under par for his four rounds, taking a total of only 272 strokes.

Bayer, the 240-pound ex-Washington football player who shared the lead through three rounds, shot even par 71 but he couldn't cope with young Player's sensational birdie shooting in the rain.

Bayer settled for 274 while Kroll, the tournament veteran who had started the last round tied with Bayer, fell back to 276.

Don Whitt came up strong over the sodden 6,672-yard Harding Park mire with a five-under-par 66 to tie Bayer at 274. The two collected $3,800 each.

Dow Finsterwald wound up with 69-73-69-72—283, worth $201.11.

Takes Home Bacon

KNOX, Ind. (AP) — Proprietors of a local clothing store sure were glad to see Harry Stevens walk in. Stevens had the winning ticket on a raffle held several days before and the store clerks were getting nervous about keeping the prize around. It was a live pig.

Woman Bowler Fires 300 Game

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Jasko, 36-year-old bowling instructor, fired a 300 game Sunday night—only the fourth woman to turn the perfect trick in Cleveland history.

Mrs. Jasko, who has been bowling for eight years and has a 174 average, started slowly with games of 149 and 193. Then she swept through 12 straight strikes. Her final hit was not a clean one and she wasn't home free until a stubborn 10-pin wiggled and fell.

Only two other women have bowled 300 games in the nation since September.

JIM-DANDY GUY — Honored by the Cleveland baseball writers as "Man of the Year," Jim Perry, who copped 18 victories for the Tribe in 1960, holds the program on his night in Cleveland. Perry was feted as the writers staged their annual Ribs and Roast dinner.

Teenager Wins Speed Skate Title

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The 20-year speedskating empire of Ken Bartholomew crumpled on the bell lap of the mile race, and a Chicago teen-ager skated the old master out of a title.

Eddie Rudolph, a 19-year-old senior at Glenbrook High in suburban Chicago and a 1960 olympian, won the senior men's outdoor championship at Lake Como Sunday.

The first day leader by two points, Bartholomew at 40 couldn't stand the gaff when youngsters who weren't born when he won his first national started piling on the pressure.

Braves Thump Frankfort in 55-45 Contest

Logan Elm's cage force continued its winning ways by handing Frankfort a 55-45 defeat Saturday night.

Sparked by the set shooting of Denny Valentine and Chuck Spangler and the tips of Roger Clarke, the Braves danced away to a 14-4 lead by the time the first period ended. The halftime score read 26-13 in favor of the hosts and they held onto a 37-25 bulge at the three - quarter mark.

Valentine, finding the range from the side, dropped in 14 points. Spganler, a lot shot artist, added 10 and Clarke popped 11 in his process of cleaning the boards.

Hammond sparked Frankfort with 19 points. He was aided by Newman with 12.

Logan Elm made it a double win by stinging the visiting reservists, 45-25.

Views on Television - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It was almost a year ago when Jack Paar, with tears in his eyes, arose from his host's chair on the NBC "Tonight" show and walked off the program murmuring, "Surely there must be a better way to make a living."

In the intervening 12 months, many things have happened to Paar, including a triumphal return to his show. But Paar has not retreated one inch from his belief about a better way to make a living.

He is not kidding and he is not threatening when he says that he wants to leave his late-night NBC show by the end of this year, even though his contract runs to the end of 1962.

"And what would I do?" he repeated dreamily. "I'd take my wife and daughter and go off for a long time to some place where nobody even mentioned television. I'd rest. I'd travel. I'd fool around the house."

And, after that, he'd like to return to his profession: entertainer.

"Perhaps one show a week for two hours," he said. "I think I'd like a Sunday night show. It looks so easy to the audience, and nobody has any idea how hard it is and how much work goes into those few minutes I do alone."

Paar has been working on another of his occasional early-evening shows, "The Square World of Jack Paar," which will be shown Tuesday night on NBC (10-11).

If you watch enough television, you'll be rewarded occasionally by the darndest experiences.

For instance, on Friday night in the CBS spot recently awarded a panel show called, "You're In the Picture," there wasn't any panel. There was just Jackie Gleason talking about what a terrible show "You're In the Picture" had been the week before. Jackie was wonderful—funny, sad, witty and frank. But suppose every time a program proved a dud, the management devoted the next show to discussing it.

Then Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan Show there was Salvadore Dali, the painter, with a fencers mask over his head, a cane in his left hand and a veteranarian pistol, designed to shoot anethesia into ailing lions, in his right. He was shooting pink bullets at a canvass, and achieving what he said was a religious theme.

"You are looking at an historic moment in art," Sullivan informed us. Maybe if it wasn't historic it was an explosive moment. And from now on, if you can aim straight, you're an artist.

Recommended tonight: June Allyson Show, CBS, 10:30-11 EST —Lee J. Cobb staring in a Civil War drama, "School of the Soldier."

Mighty Buckeyes Due To Hit Road

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes, No. 1 in the Big Ten and the nation, hit the highways this week and should come home with new laurels.

After turning back upset-minded Purdue Saturday night 92-62, the Buckeyes will be at Wisconsin tonight and at Michigan Saturday.

Fred Taylor's talented troupe has won 19 in a row, longest streak in the land, while Wisconsin has a 4-7 record and Michigan 3-9.

The Purdues concentrated their defense against All-America Jerry Lucas in Saturday's televised fray, and he passed off to free friends to upset the strategy. The big fellow scored 17 points, getting seven straight free throws to run an unbroken string to 22. That tied him with Mel Nowell in the point column, as Capt. Larry Siegfried led the Bucks with 21.

Ohio University gets it big test Saturday. The Bobcats, 6-0 in the classy Mid-American, face Toledo on the lakefront. The Rockets, 5-1 in the loop after losing 55-50 to the 'Cats at Athens in mid-January, could throw the race into a dead heat.

The Bobcats almost fell back into a tie Saturday, but beat last-place Western Michigan 78-76 in overtime. Bob Bolton of the Broncos, who scored 32 points, had a last-second chance to win for Western Michigan but muffed a free throw. He got eight points in the overtime, the entire Bronco output, but the Bobcats triumphed to keep their slate clean.

At the same time Toledo was losing a 69-65 heartbreaker to Detroit as Dave DeBusschere scored 37 points and picked off 32 rebounds for the winners.

Returning from an abbreviated slate caused by semester exams, the Ohio teams face a 48-game schedule this week, 27 against out-of-state squads. The Ohioans have constructed a 126-95 record in interstate play this season. Home clubs have a 246-114 edge over visiting teams.

Cincinnati and Bradley—the latter No. 3 in the nation—resume their rivalry Tuesday in the Queen City. Cincinnati beat Drake 80-70 Saturday for its ninth straight and a 14-3 mark, with 6-9 Paul Hogue getting 24 points and 21 rebounds. Bradley leads the Missouri Valley with 5-0, Cincinnati is second with 5-2, so a Bearcat triumph could tighten it up.

Among Saturday's top scorers were Mount Union's Dave Brubaker, 27 in a 73-52 loss to Wooster; Findlay's Willie Tuggle 24 and Keith Hortman 22 in a 106-84 loss to Ohio Northern; Marietta's Carl Wolfe, 29 in 84-66 win over Otterbein; Akron's Alex Adams, 27 in 104-66 triumph over Heidelberg; Marshall's Tex Williams, 26 (23 in last half) to defeat Bowling Green 64-58; Dayton's Bill Cramsey 23 and Gary Roggenburk 22 in the 87-64 nod over Xavier, and Don Benadum of Muskingum, 29 (three free throws in last 30 seconds) to defeat Steubenville 59-56.

Vital Battles Await Top U.S. Cage Outfits

Bonnies, Bradley, Tar Heels, Duke All Face Tell-Tale Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One week doesn't make a basketball season, but this one could for St. Bonaventure, Bradley, North Carolina, Duke, and Southern California—a havoc-wrecking handful just waiting for national leader Ohio State to stumble.

While the beat-em-all Bucks take their 19-game winning streak on the road against Wisconsin (Monday) and Michigan (Saturday), a pair of second-division Big Ten clubs, the others have some championship elimination matches coming up in probably the most important week of the season.

St. Bonaventure (14-1), second-ranked nationally, plays at Marquette Tuesday, then heads for New York's Madison Square Garden for a showdown with third-ranked Bradley (14-1) on Thursday. Bradley first goes to Cincinnati, a surging club with a 9-game winning streak, for a Missouri Valley Conference challenge on Tuesday.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina and fifth-ranked Duke renew their battle for the regular season title in the Atlantic Coast Conference—the only title the probation-penalized Tar Heels have to aim at this time around.

The Tar Heels, 12-2 with a 10-game winning streak, play Clemson Tueday and Maryland Thurday before colliding with Duke at Durham on Saturday. Duke, its only loss in 15 games to North Carolina in the Dixie Classic final, plays at South Carolina Tuesday.

Ninth-ranked Southern California, now 14-2 and unbeaten in its last seven games, defends its Big Five Conference lead against runner-up UCLA Friday and Saturday in the two-game set that could decide which goes into the NCAA tournament.

All the other conference teams are in action during the week as well as the independent clubs that are trying to build up credentials for consideration for the non-automatic berths in the two post-season tournaments—the NCAA and the NIT.

Bradley, which whipped Marquette 84-68 in the national TV game last Saturday, could just about put away the Missouri Valley title if it can win at Cincinnati. The Thursday battle with St. Bonaventure in New York could decide the successor in the polls to Ohio State should the Buckeyes falter. The Bonnies' only loss was by two points to Ohio State in the Garden's Holiday Festival in December.

The Buckeyes easily handled 10th-ranked Purdue 92-62 Saturday as Larry Siegfried scored 21 points, and All-America Jerry Lucas had 17 points, 17 rebounds and a bundle of assists to overcome a 26-point burst by Purdue's Terry Dischinger.

Duke got back in action after mid-term exams and won its sixth straight ACC game, 79-59 over Clemson as soph Art Heyman and Doug Kistler each scored 22 points. Southern California completed a successful weekend, beating Denver 68-52 Saturday after whipping Air Force Friday night. UCLA, now 12-3 overall, beat the same opponents on alternate nights.

In key games Saturday:

Paul Hogue's 24 points and 21 rebounds led the way as Cincinnati's streak went to nine and its record to 14-3 in an 80-70 triumph over Drake. Kansas State kept on Kansas' heels in the Big Eight, beating Oklahoma State for the 17th straight time, 45-43. Colorado State held its Skyline lead beating Wyoming 73-55. West Virginia, the Southern Conference leader, toppled William and Mary 76-69.

Florida remained unbeaten in the Southeastern Conference, routing Georgia 90-68; and SEC leader Mississippi State won its sixth in a row, 99-77 over Delta State. Memphis State (14-1) routed Mississippi 88-61, Indiana (9-3) handed DePaul its third straight loss, 81-78; Oregon State (11-4) routed Washington, 74-46 for a weekend two-game sweep of the Huskies, and Providence (13-2) spilled Scranton 78-56. Army won its eighth straight and 12th in 16 tries, 64-62 over Ivy leader Princeton.

The working agreement between St. Louis and Rochestor has been dropped by mutual consent. The pact was supposed to run until 1962.

Tennessean Voted as Top Girl Athlete

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—It's tough to keep ahead of Wilma Rudolph on a cinder track, but when it comes to talking, the slim speedster prefers to listen.

The Clarksville, Tenn., girl who raced to three gold medals in the 1960 Olympics was named female athlete of the year for 1960 Saturday.

Characteristically, this was her brief response: "I'm very happy. And I guess I was surprised."

But gold medals are not handed out for loquacity. Behind the shyness is a determinatinn that has carried the 130-pound Tennessee A&I sophomore to the pinnacle of the track world, overcoming a crippled foot in childhood.

In The Associated Press year-end poll of sports writers and broadcasters, Wilma was named first on 115 of the 120 ballots. She received 365 points on a 3-2-1 basis, easily outdistancing swimmer Chris Von Saltza, another winner of three gold medals, who received 126. World and Olympic figure skating champion Carol Heiss—now Mrs. Hayes Alan Jenkins—was third with 101.

Darlene Hard was a distant fourth and Maria Bueno of Brazil, the 1959 winner, was fifth. Both are tennis players.

Wilma's coach, Ed Temple, termed the award "a tremendous honor that couldn't be given to a more deserving person.

"She certainly has proved herself one of the world's greatest athletes," Temple said.

Michigan Truckers Face Middletown Rap

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Two Michigan truckers faced Municipal Court today on charges stemming from a restaurant brawl, police said, that left a rookie patrolman, David Barrett, unconscious. Barrett, son of a city detective, was in good condition at Middltown Hospital Sunday with bruises on his face and back.

Barrett said he was beaten after he sought, while off duty and in civilian clothes, to arrest the truck drivers on charges of disorderly conduct after a loud disturbance. Police filed additional charges of assault and battery and resisting arrest against the truckers, identified as Leroy Doty, 29, LaSalle, Mich., and Paul Garland, 41, Melvindale, Mich.

Advertising Twist

dezvous about 35 miles off Recife but that he expected full instructions from Washington to be sent him aboard the Gearing. He said three other U.S. destroyers were en route here.

Asked if he expects to transfer all the passengers or only the 42 Americans aboard, Smith replied that this depended on the outcome of his talk with Galvao.

U.S. Navy planes spotted the Santa Maria at 7:30 p.m. Sunday cruising in apparently aimless patterns off Brazil's Atlantic coast.

Galvao was under instructions from Gen. Humberto Delgado, exziled leader of the Portuguese National Liberation movement, to keep the Santa Maria in international waters until after the inauguration of Brazilian President-elect Janio Quadros Tuesday.

Quadros gave assurance that if Galvao sails into a Brazilian port for safe discharge of the passengers, he will not seize the $16.6-million liner for return to her Portuguese owners. He also offered Galvao a haven.

The outgoing administration of President Jusecelino Kubitschek decided Saturday to offer Galvao political asylum if he entered Brazilian waters, but to turn the Santa Maria back to her Portuguese owners, the Colonial Navigation Co.

The United States had proposed that Kubitschek permit the Santa Maria to enter a Brazilian port to discharge her passengers without threat of seizure.

the legislature a bill to allow the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation's advisory council to decide when an extra 13 weeks of benefits are needed in unemployentm eergencies.

Indications at this early date in the legislative session are that the so-called uniform commercial code, a bill which revises the law on most commercial transactions, probably has a good chance of enactment.

Senate hearings on the bulky bill—two of them—are scheduled this week. The measure almost got through the legislative mill two years ago—but not quite. Since then, opposition has dwindled. The idea, eventually, is to get uniform law in all the states with regard to commerce.

Tonight, the governor will ask the legislature for enactment of a conflict of interest law. Another special message will go to the assembly Wednesday.

The second message will deal with a proposed criminal conspiracy law or revision of Ohio's utility rate-making statutes, he told newsmen.

All three proposals failed to win approval two years ago.

DiSalle said tonight's message would cite actual examples of conflicts without identifying the officials. His proposal would require elective and appointive public officials to sever all connections with enterprises doing business with the state, including practice before boards and commissions.

The criminal conspiracy proposal seeks penalties for those who direct gambling, prostitution and narcotics operations as well as apprehended violators.

The governor said he favors a "Fair value" or similar formula in evaluating utility property for rate-making purposes as a substitute for the present method of using the cost of replacing utility property, less an allowance for depreciation. The present formula is known as reconstruction cost new, less depreciation (RCN).
